STICK TO THEIR CLERKSHPIS

Bricklayers May Be Better Paid, But Young Men Prefer the High Stool and Pen.

"You often hear clerks say they would rather be bricklayers on account of the pay, but they don't know what they're talking about. Clerking beats bricklaying every day in the week and twice on Sunday."

He took another cheese sandwich in his long, pale, ink-stained fingers, and, perched on the lunch counter's high stool, he declaimed wittily:

"Clerks, however poor, are popular with the ladies on account of their fine clothes, but bricklayers, when they go sparkling, get the cold shoulder."

"A bricklayer, no matter how much he makes, has trouble in getting into swell boarding houses, for his clothes sell the fine furniture; but a clerk, with his white hands, is welcome in any house he can afford."

"I know what I'm talking about, for I bricklaid two years before I took to clerking. And you'll find lots of young bricklayers forsaking the trowel for the pen, but though clerks often say bitterly that they'd rather lay bricks than just a pen, they don't really mean it—they never think."

GOOD WORD FOR THE COYOTE

"I have been ranching on an island for more than a quarter of a century," writes a correspondent of the Fur News. "There are no coyotes on the island, but the coyote will, and I could get rid of him in a very short time and at very little expense, but if I did the rabbit would soon put me out of business."

I have corresponded along these lines and know what I'm talking about, and I decline here and now that in my opinion the coyote is a valuable animal save the farmers and stock raisers hundreds of millions of dollars by keeping the rabbits in check."

THE BRUTE

"I saw Mrs. Jain in a box at the theater last night with a strange man."

"I wonder where Jain was?" "It was Jain she was with." "But I thought you said she was with a strange man?"

"Well, I heard you remark just yesterday that Jain was a strong man." —Houston Post

CRUELTY OF FATE

If not the first week of the glad new year, and the jokemonger had just let out a large, open-faced sigh.

"What's the matter, dawg?" asked the wife of his master, after the death of her kind.

"I have just thought of a first-class leap-rope job," he answered, and now I've got to wait until next year, since before I can make it."

WIDOWS PAID PENSIONS

The idea of pensioning widows has steadily grown in America, and it has been found wiser for the state to pension the widow for the care of her children than to endeavor to fit such employment as would cause her to neglect the children. The following new scale of widow allowances was introduced in the U.S. Senate and took effect May 3, 1918. For one child, $1.25; two children, $1.40 each; three children, $1.60 each; four children, $1.75 each; more than four children, $1.80 each, a maximum of $1.85.

EASY ROAD TO LITERATURE

"How is it that the newspapers peak of him as being literary?"

"Well, the report comes from the family that he has lost his appetite and bought a typewriter on the installment plan."

IDEA IS RATHER GREWSOME

Baltimore Man Gives Trading Stamps Good for Funeral, Grave and Monument.

Trading stamps good for a complete funeral and a monument are offered by Richard Bespass, founder of a colony just outside Baltimore, and who has purchased 150 acres of land for a cemetery adjoining the city.

When the customer has obtained enough stamps with her dress goods, her spring bonnet, her lace shawl, her stockings and other things she buys she will be entitled to a ride in a funeral car to this cemetery, where she will be nicely buried with a monument over her grave.

Of course, no real live one wants to be buried, but Bespass says his experience is that some day people will be buried whether they like it or not, and they might as well get ready for it in an economical way.

AN UNSOLICITED TESTIMONIAL

UNLUCKY REFERENCE

Judge Wade, who used to preside in a Maryland court, was a great stickler for certifying the attorney's references. In consequence of this custom he once got completely upset a young lawyer who was seeking an adoption suit.

"It came hand and foot," he cried, belligerently. "I sat down in the law office."

"On what point?" interrupted the judge who had only caught the last words of the lawyer.

"On what point?"

"On what point?"
